

Activity 4: Summary Questions

Task

1. What different theories of the body existed in early modern Europe?
2. If you had been born in the Renaissance, do you think you would have experienced your own body differently? How could historians begin to answer this question?
3. Why were body parts important in early modern culture?